Appointment

Adeline Duterque appointed General Secretary of GRTgaz

GRTgaz, France's primary gas transmission system operator, which is committed to the energy transition, has just appointed Adeline Duterque to the position of General Secretary. She also becomes a member of GRTgaz's Executive Committee.

Adeline Duterque was previously Director of the CRIGEN, ENGIE's research centre for energy sources and new energies.

Adeline Duterque is taking over management of GRTgaz's General Secretariat.

Adeline Duterque began her career in 1992 with EDF-GDF Services, working as a branch manager.

From 1997 onwards, she had various marketing and development roles in a number of different Gaz de France business teams, before taking over as Director of Gaz de France's Strategic Analyses in 2004.

In 2009, she joined GRDF as Development Director.

In 2012, she joined ENGIE, working as a Senior Economist and Vice President in charge of Forward Planning.

In 2019, she was appointed Director of ENGIE's CRIGEN Lab – ENGIE's research centre dedicated to energy sources and new energies in towns and cities.

She had also served as Chairwoman of GRTgaz's Board of Directors since 2018.

Adeline Duterque is 55 years old and is a graduate of Paris business school HEC.

A photograph of Adeline Duterque is available on request.
